

English Department Advanced Course Offerings for Seniors

Name of Course	Students in this Course Usually Matriculate from...	Take this Course if You...	Course Length	Are Students Prepared to Take an AP Exam?	This Course Summarized in One Word or Phrase is...	Who Taught the Course in Recent Years?
AP English Literature 12	Honors English 11 or Advanced American Studies	Love to read, discuss, analyze, and write about great literature, plus want potential college credit for doing so.	Full Year (alternating days)	Yes	The “Classic” AP English Class: Deep Reading of Classic Books	Mr. Townsend, Mrs. Miller, and Mrs. Reiley
AP English Language	Honors English 11 or Advanced American Studies	Love to write creatively, critically, and cleverly in a variety of ways, plus want potential college credit for doing so.	Full Year (alternating days)	Yes	Read Great Non-fiction Models and Write like the Pros	Mrs. Hobbs
AP English Literature Paired with Humanities*	Honors English 11 or Advanced American Studies	Love to read, analyze, discuss, and write about great literature, as well as its connections to music, visual art, drama, philosophy, theology, and other humanistic endeavors throughout history... plus want potential college credit for doing so.	Full Year (all days)	Yes	Classic Literature Connections: Music, Art, Technology, Field Trips, Guest Speakers, and More...	The pairing has not been offered at JHS since 2008-2009, when Mr. Lampert and Mrs. Shaver co-taught it.
Advanced World Literature	Honors English 11, Advanced American Studies, or American Studies	Are interested in reading, discussing, and writing about great literature from various world cultures and time periods, perhaps in preparation for doing so later as an undergraduate in college.	1 Semester	No	Important Literature from around the World	Mrs. Glennon and Mrs. Wilson

* The Humanities course (a) is a Social Studies elective offered via WJCC’s Visions program, (b) can potentially be paired with AP Language, but has traditionally been paired with AP Literature, and (c) will only be offered in 2011-2012 if student enrollment warrants its offering.